FEEDBACK FROM STUDENTS:

Students have provided comprehensive feedback covering both academic and non-academic aspects of their educational experience. Semester-wise feedback is regularly collected, focusing on teaching pedagogy, course coverage, and the level of academic and personal support offered by faculty members. Students have expressed satisfaction with the Institute's infrastructure, highlighting the well-equipped classrooms, laboratories, libraries, recreational areas, and access to modern technologies and relevant software. They also value the availability of resources such as the library, computer labs, and the language lab, which enhance their learning experience.

In addition, students actively participate in various institutional committees and take part in co-curricular and extracurricular activities, which contribute significantly to a vibrant and engaging campus life. However, specific feedback pointed to the need for more targeted placement-related training and increased practical exposure, particularly in the area of finance. Students emphasized the importance of aligning academic learning with real-world industry practices to improve employability and preparedness for the corporate world.

ACTION TAKEN:

In response to the feedback received, the Institute took several proactive steps to enrich the student learning experience and promote holistic development. Classes were conducted consistently, and students were provided with all necessary academic materials and access to learning resources. The Institute maintained and enhanced its infrastructure, including well-equipped libraries, computer and language labs, and modern technological tools to support effective teaching and learning.

To address placement-related concerns, the Institute organized technical skill enhancement sessions and introduced various value-added courses, to provide students with practical knowledge and exposure to real-world practices. Personality development sessions were conducted to strengthen soft skills such as communication, professionalism, and confidence.

Furthermore, the Institute encouraged students to participate in live projects in collaboration with industry partners, offering hands-on experience and vocational training. Guest lectures, mock interviews, alumni interaction sessions, industrial visits, and workshops were regularly conducted to familiarize students with current industry trends and expectations. Language lab sessions were held to improve communication proficiency, and multiple MOUs with industry bodies were established to facilitate real-world exposure and collaboration.
